

The district court dismisses Rototilt's lawsuit against engcon – no damages awarded

As previously announced by engcon AB (“engcon”), in June 2022, the tiltrotator manufacturer Rototilt filed a lawsuit against engcon regarding alleged infringements of patented technology. Hearings were held at the Patent and Market Court during the month of March earlier this year, and today, the district court announced its judgment in the case. The district court determines that there is no infringement and Rototilt's action is therefore dismissed.

engcon intends to further analyze the judgment and in what way it may affect engcon.
