

Strengthening of engcon's Group Management

engcon, the world's leading manufacturer of tiltrotators, are implementing changes in its Group Management to reinforce its focus on global sales and growth in response to the demands of an expanding global market. Effective December 1, 2023, engcon's Group Management will be expanded to include the four regional sales managers.

"This strategic adjustment aims to strengthen engcon's position as a leading player, ensuring our ability to meet and exceed our customers' expectations in an increasingly competitive and global market environment", says Krister Blomgren, CEO of engcon Group.

Jens Blom, who previously announced that he is leaving his role as CFO, will continue to be a part of the Group Management until his successor assumes the role. Additionally, by the turn of the year, engcon's CIO, Peter Huczkwosky, will be leaving the company.

"Throughout their time in Group Management, Peter and Jens have both played integral roles in our journey towards establishing engcon as a successful global player in the excavation industry. We are pleased that Jens will remain with the company, and we thank Peter for his contributions and wish him luck in his continued career", says Krister Blomgren.
